TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Re: Dave Edwards

I am a lawyer by profession, wife to a husband in highly demanding career, and mom of two children who lead active lives that we are very involved in. My husband and I have known Dave Edwards, and experienced and been witness to his leading, teaching and counsel, for over fourteen years.

Through Dave, I have learned invaluable life skills, such as how to set boundaries, with which I have been able to remain firm on my path to maintaining a successful law practice, balanced with a fulfilling personal life. Dave's teaching and counseling is very pragmatic; he clearly understands the dynamics of the business world and can provide the support needed to transform in a healthy way. I am much freer to be myself and see who I can be.

My husband, a police officer, has also been greatly influenced by Dave. From Dave's inspirational and dynamic teaching, my husband has learned that the "inside of the cup" is what ultimately affects our "outside" responses, and that success starts from our "inside response". With information gleaned from Dave's ability to take complex information and make it simple and useable, my husband has a positive professional attitude and successful relationships.

David Edwards is a seasoned speaker, teacher, counselor and consultant. He uses principles gleaned from his personal experiences and in the business world, as well those from years of spiritual, marital, financial and relationship teaching and counseling, to reach, inspire and support others. His style is not in the slightest way pushy or preachy, but authentic and committed.

Without any hesitation, I commend Dave Edwards as a life coach, consultant, counselor, facilitator, and speaker. He will make a significant positive impact, in a dynamic, challenging and supportive way.

Sincerely,

Adele L. Burchart, BA, LLB
